Venue:

Seminar Hall, 2nd
floor, Sir M V Block, CIT

Event:

Workshop

Event at a Glance:

Alumnus Mr. Himanshu Srivastava conducted a half-day session for 60 students of the CSE department on the topic “From Resume to Real-World: Building Skills That Land You Opportunities” at 11 am on the 25th of October 2025.

- They will learn how to write a strong, recruiter-ready resume that helps them stand out.
- We will build a complete real-world project from scratch, step by step, during the session.
- They will gain actionable insights and career tips drawn from real industry experience.
- They will get their doubts answered and receive clear guidance on navigating the early stages of their tech journey.

Speaker:

Mr. Himanshu Srivastava

Mr. Himanshu is a currently software engineer at a Y-combinator start-up BIK. He graduated from the CSE department of CIT in 2024, does freelancing IT work and was also a part of the TedXCIT core team as a student.

Event Report:

We spoke about going beyond “good marks” and actually building things that set you apart. Split everyone into groups, fired up some ideas, and by the end of the session, a total of 10 projects were born. It felt unreal standing where I once sat, sharing what I’ve learned so far. Not as a know-it-all, but as someone still figuring things out, just a bit ahead on the road. Huge thanks to the CIT faculty and every student who showed up with curiosity and energy. Special regards to Aaron Noel D'Souza and Prof. Maria Kiran L for the smooth experience.
